er-His Suit for the Note Sucressful, A sult to recover $100 on a note given by Harlaw. Morris Salowitz, was decided in favor of the latter by Justice McKean in the Yorkville to Nathan's 20-year-old sister on June 13 of last year. According to Salowitz, the marriage was the result of a business transaction between himself and the defendant. Miss Nathan was an outside party to the transaction, her brother acting merely as an agent. According to Salowitz's story, he and Nathan had been friends for a year or more. One day early last spring they met in Third avenue, and the following conversation took place:

"I believe that you are a bachelor, aren't you, Morris?" said Nathan. "Yes," replied Salowitz, "and I propose to remain one. 'Now, see here," said Nathan, "it is very wrong for you to talk like that. A man never knows when he's well off until he gets married. You're a nice sort of a fellow, and I've a sister who would make you a first-rate wife. What do you say ?" Salowitz "epiled that he knew the other's sister would make some one a good wife, and that he appreciated Nathan's kindness, but that ne guessed he was well enough off as he was.

"All right," said Nathan, "I'll speak to you again to-morrow. I like you first-rate, and my ster-well, she knows a good thing when she

That was what Nathan had been waiting for.
"See here, Morris," said he, "Tree been thinking the matter over, and I'll tell you what I'll do. On the day you marry my saster I'll give you $35 in cash and my hote for $100."
Then, as Salowitz hesitated:
"And I'll agree to let you and your wife live with me free of charge for three months. Now what do you say to that?"
"I'll think it over," replied Salowitz, "and tell you to-morrow."

"Well, what do you say to my proposition?"
asked the latter.
"The decided to accept," said Salowitz, "but you want to remember to give me that $35 and the note when the affair comes off,"
"Of course, I will," replied Nathan. "On the day of the wedding the money is yours."
"And about those three months?" inquired the prospective bridegroom.
"Oh, that's all right, too," said Nathan, "We will have a famous time of it."
On June 11 the Nathans and Salowitze, with helr friends, went to Rabbi Solomon, and Saloitz and Miss Nathan were married. After the "remony Nathan gave the bridegroom $35 in went to live with the bride's brother, as had been arranged.

According to Salowitz, things did not turn out as he had expected. The trouble began when Nathan got tired of him and ordered him to leave the house, which ho did. When, however, the $100 note became due, and his brother-in-law refused to honor it. Salowitz decided that he had been made the victim of something, and brought an action for the recovery of his own.

According to the papers in the case, he prayed that Nathan might be ordered to pay him $100 in money, the said Harris Nathan having given him a note for the same, which he had accepted in good faith. He had since discovered that the note was given with the intention to defrand. In defence, Nathan's counsel argued that the plaintiff had given no value in return for the note, and that, therefore, there was no reason why his client should pay Salowitz the $100.

In his decision vesterday, Justice McKean decided that Salowitz had given ample value for the note, and judgment was rendered in his favor.

CHURCH BELLS IN BROOKLYN.

No More Angelus Minging at the Home for

Only two persons responded yesterday to the Invitations which Health Commissioner Freery of Brookly a had sent out for a conference over the anti-church bell ringing ordinance issued last week. They were Little Sisters of the Poor and are attached to the Home for the Aged, in Eighth avenue and Sixteenth street, against whose Angelus bell the principal complaints were directed. When Dr. Emery ex-Ilained the matter to the Sisters they agreed to discontinue the ringing of the bell. He says the ordinance restricting the ringing of the bells has met with almost general appro-bation. This is a communication he received yesterday from a leading clergyman, whose name he rotuses to give out:

My Dear Sur: I want to thank you for your ne tion in emphasizing the ordinance against tell ring ing. The suppression of that superfluous nuisance tion in emphasizing the ordinance against bell ring-ing. The suppression of that superfluous nuisance is demanded alike by common sense and a due re-gard to the health and confort of the community. It is notoclous that bell tinging has no effect what-ever in drawing people to attend church. It is a mere survival from primitive village conditions and is utterly out of place in a nosiern city. As a citizen and a minister I thank you.

GREGORY MURDER TRIAL TO GO ON. Prisourr Looks Feeble, but the Tombs Doc. tor Says Ills Condition Is Normal,

A jury was secured yesterday to try Jesse M. Gregory in the General Sessions for the murder of his wife, Clara, on April 6 last at her home, 224 Eighth avenue. Gre ory, when led into court yesterday morning, had the appearance of a man on the verge of collapse. He his head bowed in his hands, and seemed to be entirely broken down in health and spirit. Law yer Abraham Levy, who is defending him, told the Court that he was afraid Gregory was un-the Court that he was afraid Gregory was unable to stand the strain of a trial. The Recorder summoned Dr. O. J. Ward, the Tombs physician, and he examined Gregory. The Dector said he believed the man to be in normal condition, and the Recorder ordered counsel to proceed with the trial to-day.

The principal witness against Gregory is his six-year-old daughter, who was in the room when her mother was shot. She has not seen her father since the shooting.

SHE WANTED TO WEAR TROUSERS.

In Them, She Thought, She Could Watch Better the Habits of Her Young Man. BRIDGEPORT, Feb. 17. A handsome young woman, dressed in black and heavily veiled, entered the police station last evening and introduced herself to Superintendent Birmingham as Miss Hattie Wilcox of Milford. She asked permission to wear male carb. She was engaged to a young man in this city, she said, and the marriage was to take place in a short time. Pefore she became his wife, however, she de-sired to know something of his habits. She was sired to know something of his habits. She was anxious to put on masculine attire and follow him for a few nights to see for herself. Superintendent Birmingham teld her that if she donned male attire she must do so at her own risk, and he ready to stand the unpleasant situations it would be likely to lead her into. She left the station much disappointed, but undecided about running the risks of appearing in man's clothes.

Coroner Hoeber held an inquest yesterday in the case of Thomas J. Dowling, a grocer, of 356 Willis avenue, who died on Feb. 6. Friends of Dowling alleged that death was due to the rough treatment he received from Policemen Gunston and McMann of the Morrisania police station, by whom he was arrestly conduct.

Coroner's Physician Huber, who made the autopsy, said that death was due to alcoholism. Suissequent testimeny showed that Dowling was a drinking man.

The jury returned the verdict that death was due to alcoholism. It also censured Gunston and McMainn for undue harsh treatment while conveying Dowling to the station house.

ruined a considerable portion of his business, sued the city in the United States District Court for $3,632, his alleged loss during a specified period owing to the operation of the order. Yesterday Judge Brown, in the United States District Court, handed down a decision in which he says:

"The libel does not state any facts showing action by the Park Roard wholly beyond the scope of its powers regulating the opening of drawbridges under the act of the State Legislature. I think the plaintiff's remedy lies in an appeal to the State courts, in the absence of any appeal to the State courts, in the absence of any law of Congress on the subject."

At a meeting of the Board of Estimate in Brooklyn yesterday the cost of removing the ashes and cleaning the streets for the next three years was estimated at $810,000 and $1,527,000 respectively. sanguine believer in higher prices for stocks, that the enthusiasm of the speculative element in Wall street over the successful floating of the Government loan reached its climax a week ago to-day. The dealings in stocks last Monday were the largest in many weeks, aggregating nearly 450,000 shares. Since then the volume of trading on the Stock Exchange has dwindled steadily until to-day only 161,000 shares were dealt in. At the same time prices have declined in an irregular way, so that with the exception of a few Industrial stocks, the market for which is largely the result of indefatigable manipulation, the list is lower than at the close of business a week ago to-night.

Yet during the week a number of favorable developments have occurred, chief among them the unprecedented and overwheiming vote against free silver in the lower House of Congress. The magnitude of that vote, together with the comparative promptness with which it was reached after the assembling of The Chino Pacific, Denver and Guif Railroad Pacific Proper and branches, the New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, and the Chicago and Eric proper and branches, the New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, and the Chicago and Eric proper and branches, the New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, and the Chicago and Eric proper and branches, the New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, and the Chicago and Eric proper and branches, the New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, and the Chicago and Eric proper and branches, the New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, and the Chicago and Eric proper and branches, the New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, and the Chicago and Eric proper and branches, the New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, and the Chicago and Eric proper and branches, the New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, and the Chicago and Eric proper and thranches, the New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, and the Chicago and Eric proper and thranches, the New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, and the Chicago and Eric proper and thranches, the New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, and the Chicago and Eric proper and Er

London was apathetic to-day, and as there was no legitimate local demand for stocks the market sagged during the first half of the day. In the afternoon room traders, encouraged by the absence of any pressure to sell stocks, undertook to bid up prices, particularly in the Industrial stocks, and succeeded in doing so, an increase of $12,540 as compared with the same month of last year, and net$115, and dertook to bid up prices, particularly in the Industrial stocks, and succeeded in doing so, Sugar Refining, which supplied nearly 25 percent, of the total transactions was in every respect the leader in the final movements. A net advance of $12, 62 cent, in the price was attended by the rumors that the company is likely to declare an extra dividend, but not until after Congress adjourns. This appears to be the most far-fetched argument that the manipulators of Sugar Refining have yet ventured to advance. As the speculative community aims to be as mercurial in its action as a thermometer, it advanced the prices of the shares of the anthracite coal-carrying roads to-day on the ground that the sadden drop in the temperature has already promoted a better feeling in the shares of the more than the following the company from its ore and lake transportation business, will bring the net earning of the stock of the shares of the more than the shares of the company from its ore and lake transportation business, will bring the net earning of the stock of the shares of the company from its ore and lake transportation business, will bring the net earning of the stock of the shares of the company from its ore and lake transportation business, will bring the net earning of the stock of the shares of the company from its ore and lake transportation business, will bring the net earning the season and the shares of the season and the season and the shares of the season and the season and the season and the shares of the season and the season a
